President Shonts, Through the Evening World, Withdraws the Original Demand That City Make Good any Deficit.

"If, therefore, the city will agree to construct immediately these extensions (to Coney Island and Fort Hamilton and other Brooklyn extensions) I shall be prepared to recommend that the company modify its offer by striking out a provision requiring the city to make good the annual deficits sustained by the company; at the same time leaving in the provision for the accumus lation of any deficits which might accrue to the city for interest and sinking fund upon its own investment."

President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough Rapid Transit Comgany to-day pledged his word to The Evening World in the foregoing unmistakable language that his company would amend its original proposition by serviding a five-cent fare to Coney Island without any guarantee of deficit for operation from the city whatsoever, Department Held Up America's Participation.

WASHINGTON, March 23.-Efforts cross examining Rear Admiral Sims Sims has charged that Navy Department inefficiency prolonged hostilities. Senator Trammell, Florida, Demo crat, declared ship losses early in the war were due as much to failure of the Allies to adopt the convoy system as to failure of the United States to send anti-submarine craft to Europe "The trouble was that the Navy Department didn't go into the war after it was declared." Sims replied. Sims declared adoption of the convoy system marked the turning point of the war. "The convoy system was adopted by the Allies May 21, 1917," he said. "The United States was asked for fourteen cruisers for escorts. No cruisers were furnished for many weeks and then only seven were used. Our delay was costly. Our destroyers and other ships should have sailed the night we declared war. If they had, 2,500,000 tons of shipping would have been saved and the United States would have had 1.000,000 men in France by May 1. 1918. The fact was, that after we declared war, American ships had to go in dry dock and be repaired before they could be sent to the war zone. Senator Carter Glass, Virginia

Democrat, repeated in a letter read to-day his assertion that Sims told im the armistice had to be agreed to because Pershing's supplies broke down.

Senator Pittman told the Admira he had not presented any evidence to that the army did not ask for ocean transport that it did not get."
